2020-01-13
Recommendation letter for Samarth Jain

Samarth was working as a Software Development Intern in my team at Amazon in Berlin during the autumn of 2019. I was one of the lead engineers in the team and was working closely with Samarth.

During his internship Samarth was working on improving the ranking of products in one of Amazon gift selection experiences. He helped take the idea from drawing board to running an A/B test in production. Samarth was writing all the code and tests for the project, and also influenced the idea with some of his own suggestions.

Samarth proved himself to be a good coder and fast learner. During his time in Amazon he picked up several new tools, systems and programming languages. He was a valued team member and discovered and fixed several bugs during the project.

I would strongly recommend any company to hire Samarth as a software engineer.

Best regards,

Per Berglund,
M.Sc Computer Science
berget.p@gmail.com